Lakewood Cottage Colony Prepares For Social Activity

Many Brilliant Balls and Dinners Are Arranged for Thanksgiving Holiday; Hunting Season Opened

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
LAKEWOOD, Nov. 13.—Preparations for the gayety that is to be a feature of the Thanksgiving holidays were interspersed with social events and sports activities during the week. Arrangements for the forthcoming holiday season involve a number of brilliant balls and dinners at the homes of some of the prominent cottagers. Many of the resort's most prominent winter folk returned to Lakewood during the week and others will arrive during the next few days. The cottage colony, now well filled, is responding to the demand for the actual inauguration of social activity, and a number of informal events have been held.

Rabbit hunting season, opening last Wednesday, found many of Lakewood's prominent men tramping the well stocked woodlands surrounding the resort. Prominent among those who have been out for the first days of sport are Frank O. Roe, P. S. P. Randolph, A. J. McClure, Warren S. Banks, William E. Miner, Andrew J. Murphy, P. S. P. Randolph Jr. and J. Luther Bright.

Land development schemes have involved the present shooting area, and the traps are to be moved next week to the Locust Farm. The new grounds will get their baptism of fire on Thanksgiving Day, when the first of the season's important events will be shot. Each month thereafter a shoot will be a feature of the club's activities, although the clubhouse and traps will be in use every day for informal events and for practice.

The resumption of the weekly handicapped events at the Lakewood Country Club struck a responsive chord among the local golfers and a large group of visitors. Many of the resort's most prominent players participated in the first event of the year. L. D. Rockwell, of Great Neck, L. I., won the first match with a net score of 74 and the low gross score was made by Fred Kimball, of the Lakewood Club. Among those playing were A. J. Drexel Jr., Reginald Ronald, Kingston Gould, J. W. Noyes, Francis X. Sadler and J. P. Shanley, H. W. Ingling, Joseph Thompson, W. P. Throckmorton, J. C. Clayton, Frank Barton, E. E. Kipferle and J. P. Shanley, of the Lakewood Club; Howard R. Griffen, H. G. Giles, Roger Adams and C. H. Williams, of the Yountakah Country Club; J. B. Gribbel, of the Huntington Valley C. C., and P. E. Fleming, of the Calumet C. C.

Lakewood is responding liberally to the annual Red Cross drive which is under way here and which is being directed by Dr. Irving Hance. The local committee is being materially assisted in its drive this year by Miss Adelaide Romaine, of the cottage colony.

Society folk have made the Yale-Princeton game this afternoon an event of local importance. To-night they celebrated with a Yale-Princeton dance in the Grosvenor Grill of the Laurel House, an event which was particularly enjoyable to the younger set.

As the Thanksgiving season approaches many prominent folk are coming back to the resort. Mrs. Arthur B. Claffin joined Mr. Claffin at the Laurel-in-the-Pines to-day. Congressman Thomas J. Scully, who has just been elected Mayor of South Amboy, is spending a fortnight at the resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Skidmore have opened their house here, coming direct from Easthampton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davis and Dr. and Mrs. Irving Hance entertained dinner parties this week at the Laurel House, their guests including Miss Fisher, Hamilton Hill, Charles Lathrop Pack, Mrs. A. C. Poillon, Miss Poillon, Miss Francis, Mrs. Arthur L. Soper and Miss Hanscom.

Among those at the hotels are: Laurel House—Mrs. Sutton McKee, Mrs. Thomas D. Messler, Miss E. M. Dwiner, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph I. Simmons, Miss R. Feeny, Mrs. R. Ferris, Miss V. C. Hancoc, Mrs. M. D. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Quanger, Miss Quanger, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Turnbull, Mrs. George McDavitt, Miss Edith W. Crawford, Richard Stewart and Miss K. E. Walsh, of New York.
